

How to get to Christkönigshaus

From the Main Railway Station in Stuttgart:

1. By Underground Train (U-Bahn):

The underground train station (represented by blue sign) is one floor down under the railway station. It is called "Arnulf-Klett-Platz"/Hauptbahnhof. You can buy your ticket from a ticket machine. A single ticket costs € 2,50 (you can also use notes). Take the underground train U5, U6 or U12 to the station Möhringen. Change to underground train U3 (direction Plieningen) to the final stop Plieningen. → continued

2. By City Train (S-Bahn)

Follow the green S-signs to the city train station. You can take the train S1, S2 or S3 to the station Vaihingen. Change there to underground train U3 (direction Plieningen) to the final stop Plieningen. → continued

When you have reached the final stop, walk in the direction of the train past the kiosk and the bank until you reach the roundabout. Cross the roundabout (on your left you will see the restaurant "Gasthaus Garbe"), then turn to the right into Paracelsusstrasse.

After 200m, you will see Christkönigshaus on the right side (next to the catholic church)

If you are coming by car:

From the motorway A8 coming from Munich:

Take exit 53b S-Plieningen / S-Hohenheim.
